

The goal of every F.B.S yearbook committee has always been to capture and preserve the everyday lives of students on campus: their inspirations, fears, ideas, and ambitions. We have managed to freeze moments that are too valuable to let go of.

This yearbook is especially important for the graduating class, because it helps them return to a time when life was easy and realize how fast one loses ones youth. A yearbook allows one to laugh and think about how much one misses the days when he/she didn't carry the burdens of responsibility.

The title "RICH in MEMORIES" was chosen for a very simple reason: this keepsake captures a year full of events to remember. "RICH in MEMORIES" was created so that the students now and in the years to come would reflect on the timeless and unforgettable moments of their history. When a picture is placed in "RICH in MEMORIES", time isn't frozen for a generation, but for a lifetime, "RICH in MEMORIES" is unique, because we managed this year for the first time in the history of the F.B.S yearbook to incorporate the tenth grade students and their wild ideas in our yearbook. We hope this yearbook will show our love for our school which has so long been our second love.

The students on yearbook committee were busy, bright, trust worthy and full of life. They put this yearbook together despite numerous interruptions, from snow storms to final exams. The seniors added life to this yearbook as they always do! The yearbook committee wants to apologize for not being able to include the graduation and the open house pictures. We want everybody to enjoy the yearbook at the end of the 1992-93 school year and so are completing it before graduation.

Even though this work reflects the students' openions, we are sorry to say that our yearbook was under censorship of the adminstration, neglecting the freedom of the students to express their openions within the limits of general ethics.

We truly hope that all students enjoy their yearbook as much as we have enjoyed putting it together.

Used as a stable for horses by the Turks, used as an emergency hospital by the British, built as an institution to educate boys, the Friends School Main Building has been employed in services offered to the Palestinian community since 1901. Today it houses the administration offices, the remolded library, the Educational Network Office, and the secondary classrooms, as well as the school day memories of countless young people who have been students at FBS.

Known for its academic excellence, the Friends School has also had a rich physical education programme of soccer, basketball, volleyball, gymnastics, ping pong. The basketball court bears a silent witness to the championship games played on its floor, to the field day presentations of tumbling and gymnastics, to the folklore contests, and faculty-students soccer matches.

A school is more than the buildings and P.E. courts, and new libraries and modern labs, a school is the people who comprises its family: its administrators, its faculty... and most of all its students. It is the students of FBS that create the memories that constitutes the past and the present of FBS... those special, happy, funny, sometimes sad moments that we remember as our school days

OFFICE & ADMINISTRATION

Director of The Ramallah Friends Schools

Thoughts from the Director's Office

I am writing these words at the end of a successful voluntary work day at FBS. More than 80 students and 10 teachers were ardently cleaning, weeding, and painting. When we finished we sang and held competitions in the auditorium. After that, one could see everyone scattered around the campus resting, playing, or laughing exuberantly. Because of our collective efforts, the School premises looked more clean, colorful and lively. Everybody felt a strong sense of accomplishment and belonging to the School. We were one family with all members working to keep our home tidy so that we, our children, and later generations will be able to enjoy it and be proud of it.

This day was typical of life at FBS during the 1992/93 school year where we worked hard to achieve the best academic results, to create an excellent physical and social school environment, and to establish better relations with our community and the world at large. On all these fronts, we were successful. Our students scored among the highest in the West Bank on the matriculation exams. Every one acted with a strong sense of tolerance, mutual respect, and unity in spite of our differences in opinions, religions, and ideologies. We expanded and improved our facilities culminating, in the inauguration and dedication of the Fuad Zaru Library. We shared in the struggle of our people for survival, liberation and development. Our premises were open for the community to use for varied educational and cultural activities. We succeeded in securing more scholarships for our graduating students to study abroad. We started teacher exchanges with excellent schools in other countries including the U.S.A. and India.

As the school year ends, we feel sad, as we always do, because our graduating students are leaving us. But we are looking forward to a better school year ahead.

EDUCATIONAL NETWORK

Ellen O'Grady

Wasim Al-Kurdi

The Educational Network was established by the RFS in 1990 as a project with three objectives: 1) help protect Palestinian education from the Israeli military's continuous and prolonged area-wide school closures; 2) to help Palestinian teachers function effectively in the classroom; and 3) to help develop Palestinian education into a viable system that meets the needs of Palestinian society. The Network now has two offices, one based in the FBS and the other in Gaza City. Through its executive committee, composed of representatives from the three teachers' unions in the Ramallah district, it hopes to introduce innovative teaching methods and course materials into the curriculum.

To help link Palestinian teachers, the Network holds workshops and annual conferences, initiates teachers development projects and meetings to unify the work among the teachers' unions and educational organizations, and co-edits the bi-weekly educational page in Al-Quds newspaper. To raise awareness and understanding abroad of the problems facing Palestinian education and to gather foreign support for Palestinian education, the Network publishes newsletters in English for worldwide distribution, sends teachers abroad to meet with educators, hosts foreign delegations, and gives lectures to foreign visitors.

Seniors

Being a senior myself, 1993 will always be an unforgettable memory deep inside my heart. It's the year when all the senior graduates of the Friends take that very first step into that wide, wide world full of possibilities just waiting for us. It'll become the year we experience the world of adulthood, we never really understood.

These past twelve years will only become known as memories. Memories of laughter, unity, and friendship, along with depression, frustration, and hard work. We'll always remember that last minute before we get our test paper we studied so hard for. There will always be the unforgettable days we tried to show our country and people that we appreciate their significant efforts and sacrifices. Then there were the cold, and winter days the whole school ended up in the library.

These days might seem insignificant now, but these are the days that have shaped us into the people we are today. These are the days we have to hold on tight to, because they will never be coming back. They've exposed us to hard work and accomplishment, and have given us the thrill of holding on to the priceless piece of paper we've worked twelve years for.

We might never admit how much Friends Shcool really means to us, yet deep inside everyone of us, there exists the feeling of a second home and a second family. We've reached this far and we can even reach further. With a high hope and a willing heart, the Friends Class of 1993 will make everything seem possible and anything seem unforgettable!

GOOD LUCK TO ALL!!

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF 1993

Juniors

The Juniors are a cheerful bunch, you'd barely ever see a frown on any of their faces. Over the years they've learned to grow out of chalk fights and throwing spitballs. Some students are very smart and some very talented, and yet some are a mixture of both. Basketball is loved by most junior males, as most of them make up the school basketball team.

Juniors constantly insult and tease each other, but that's only their way of showing love and friendship towards one another. They love to party and have fun (especially during classes) although kindness and respect exist towards their teachers.

Self-determination is yet another characteristic of this cheerful group. Once they unite and put their minds to something, you can bet that they can accomplish it. At times they feel it is a God given right to talk whenever they please, even if it is in the middle of a lecture. They are good at making up excuses and get very philosophic at times, and most of their teachers, if not all, complain from the level of noise that exists in this class.

Juniors are also a group who in plain English "Don't give a care about gossip", they like to express their individuality. You can call them weird or crazy, but don't waste your breath because they're proud of who they are.

This year's 10th graders are a very spirited group. Some say there's a supernatural presence in the area of the school, determined to get the students in trouble. Objects mysteriously fly about the classrooms, even ejecting themselves through doors and windows. Doorhandles disappear from doors and seating arrangements rearrange themselves daily. Some naive souls blamed the students for throwing a broom through a window, but we knew it was only one of Macbeth's witches who lost her way.

While hardly a studious bunch, the 10th graders are very interested in history, paying particular attention to the family history of the king of Scotland. They are also excited about biology, bringing new meaning to several scientific terms. Some boys even reversed the fairy tale and kissed a frog named Suad!

These kids really know how to amuse themselves; there is never a dull moment-well, maybe one or two. But overall they provided themselves and their teachers with a lot to talk about.

When you are trying to say something about the ninth grade students you'll get in a big mess because you don't really know what to say. It is so hard to define them because each one of them is different than the other in a special way. The ninth grade students are a bunch of active young people who are always in action trying to make each minute have a special meaning to it. They love to go on fieldtrips, they love P.E., some of them play basketball, others play ping-pong, football, tennis and high jump. Although they are wild and annoying in many classes, they are sweet and calm when they want to be. The class has a lot of talented people but these people do not try to show their talents, In this year they had many activities, the most important one being the fieldtrips which everybody enjoyed. They tried to make a program for the Monday chapel but never got the chance to work on it seriously.

To make a long story short, you can say that the ninth grade students are annoying but once you really get to know them, you'll love them. They are silly sometimes but funny in many other times, they are helpful and careful. In fact, they are a very big mixture of many different types of people.

SCHOOL LABS

What do you think of Chemistry and Biology Labs? Would you actually think that the students of FBS like lab? They think its fun, interesting, and exciting. They say that using microscopes and seeing chemical reactions is neat. They also like to learn how to use the lab equipment. The most important thing is to work as partners, and not to take your partner for granted. All students agree that when it comes to writing lab reports it's no fun.

ما رايك بمختبر الفيزياء ؟
 لطالما كانت مشكلة الفيزياء و غيرها من المواد العلمية هي فهم النظرية
 داخل الصف ، و لكن مدرسة الفرندز متميزة بمختبراتها التي تسهل على
 الطلاب فهم النظرية بشكل جيد . بالنسبة لمختبر الفيزياء فهو -بالمقارنة مع
 باقي المختبرات- قديم نوعا ما و الكثير من الاجهزة غير صالحة لاعطاء نتائج
 دقيقة. نامل ان تعمل المدرسة على نقل المختبر الى مكان اوسع و تعمل على
 تجهيزه بادوات احدث.

مكتبة فؤاد سليم الزرو

At the beginning of this scholastic year 1993, the school library was moved to its new location in the former student lounge, where there is more space for shelves and study tables. This, of course, accomodates bigger numbers of students and involves lots of work for the librarians. Here, I would like to express my appreciation for the great help that Miss Kim Kahlhammer has been during this year.

We have been receiving books from donors, both abroad and at home. Mr. Graham Leonard has just donated part of his library to us. We have also started subscribing to some new educational magazines.

On April 13th, 1993 the library was dedicated to the memory of the former principal of the school, the late Mr. Fuad Zaru. The renovation of the hall and the new furniture were donated by the UNDP and the people of Canada.

The morning line up may seem like a dumb habit but the truth is it 's rather fun. Where else do you get to hear the wonderful voice of Mr. Hishmeh every morning. The other great thing about lining up is when the home room teacher takes you out of line because your 're not wearing the uniform. We may still talk in line when we 're not suppose to but you never know maybe one day we 'll actually line up without saying a word.
