Dear Parents,

I am writing to you on this chilly day from a very quiet school. Both campuses have now been closed since the Prime Minister called a state of emergency. A school without teachers and students is really just buildings.

The school administration met online today to review its procedures and to consider next steps. We continue to monitor the current situation closely and we continue to follow both Ministry of Health and Ministry of Education updates. There have not been any recent updates but through the news we are aware of an increase of COVID-19 cases and following new information that there is now at least one case in Ramallah.

During this time our staff are working hard to provide online materials and lessons to the students to try and minimize the disruption caused by school closing. We will be expanding this program for the upper and lower schools and refining the scheduling for the best interests of the students. Eduration is our main platform of communication and so far it is able to provide meaningful interaction between students and teachers. The Eduration team are responsive to the requests we are making and so, although online classes are new to us and many schools around the world, we see that this will be an increasing benefit for our students.

The situation evolves daily and there are still numerous unknowns that the administration is working through. We will update you as external requirements are made clear to us. If you have any questions please don't hesitate to contact the Principals on each campus.
